LULL ON ARRAS FRONT

AMSTERDAM, June 2. Kaiser Wilhelm has wired hearty congratulations to Emperor Charles of Austria for the Austrian defense on the Italian front, according to Berlin dispatches today.

Your army on the Isonzo has bidden defiance to a mighty and stubborn onalaught and caused it to fail," the Kaiser declared. "I congratulate you and your brave troops on their great success, God helping us."

LONDON, June 2. There were indications today that the British may extend their drive into west ing activity along this part of the border is accepted by many military experts as the prelude to infantry assaults.

In the Belgian front, especially in the districts around Ypres and Wytschaete, the artillery firing has become so violent as to draw comment from the German War Office. This has led to the prediction by Dutch war commentators that the Germans are preparing for a new Channel drive.

Two previous efforts have been made by the Germans to break though and seach Germans to break through and reach the Channel, but both broke down, with

More than 54,500 German prisoners have been captured by the British and French since their joint offensive was opened. Of these number 31,829 were taken by the French and the remainder by the British. Despite the greater activity in the north, the comparative luli in the fighting farther south continues.

100 ALREADY IN PRISON

NEW YORK, June 2. Three Columbia University students, Eleanor Parker, Owen Cattell and Charles Phillips, charged with conspiracy to violate the conscription law, were held for action by the Grand Jury when arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock today. Assistant District Attorney Content declared the anti-conscription publicity they distributed "was treasonable, seditious and rotten stuff."

CINCINNATI, June 2. Twelve men were to face United States officials today on charges of Planders. The increasing artillery and raid- treason. They were arrested in the western central section of the city last night, citizens aiding in making arrests. The men are alleged to have distributed seditious hand bills denouncing conscription.

WASHINGTON, June 2. One hundred alleged anticonscription or antiregistration plotters have been bagged by the Department of Justice, with other arrests to follow.

Activities of the plotters seemed for the moment to have been dulled by the fear of the hand of the law; but evidence in possession of Federal agents indicated that Monday will see new outbursts. Attorney General Gregory, however, was inclined to take a more optimistic view of matters today than at any time since the sinister plotting started. This does not mean, though, that the Department was re-mean, though, that the Department was re-laxing its vigilance.

On the other hand, realizing that the worst of the piqts—and even riots—may be ahead, the Federal agents increased their, hunt in every corner of the nation. In reply to suggestions that examples be made of some of the ringleaders before registration day; certain authorities suggested that a drastic course would "martyrize" the men and really have a retroactive effect throughout the country.

Officials estimate that the number of registering next Tuesday will be almost negligible when taken in comparison with the more than 10,000,000 who are subject to registration.

Efforts to round up the quitters will be made both on registration day and thereafter, and such of them as are located by Federal, State and local authorities or in-

PETROGRAD, June 2.

Russia's criminals, all released from prison in the first joyous celebration of the revolution, are fast making Petrograd unsafe. A wave of robberies and violent crimes is sweeping the city.

A number of heavily armed anarchists paraded the Nevsky Prospect today bearing banners inscribed "Down With Authority! Long Live the Social Revolution!" Speakers at various meetings of these paraders urged the people to loot the banks.

Many soldiers and sailors joined in the demonstration. The paraders were armed with rifles, revolvers and grenades. No attempt was made to arrest them.

Today a millionaire merchant, Gregoriest, was shot down at his mansion in the very heart of the city by three men. The trio claimed to be anarchists and demanded money of the merchant. Militiamen and workers responding to Gregoriess's cries for help killed one bandit and captured a second. The third committed suicide. The 30,000 rubles ($15,000) which they had forced Gregoriess to give them was recovered.

When the new democratic government

When the new democratic government took hold all criminals were released from the prisons. They sought out the cities and towns and have grown bolder and bolder in thievery and murder.

Minister of Commerce Konovoloff tendered his resignation today on account of differences with Minister of Labor M. Skobeleff as to financial and economic measures. This may presage another political crisis.

The unrest in the city has been augmented by the strike of 6000 clerks in Petrograd's shops. They are demanding double wages—retroactive since the start of the war—which would be an equivalent of from 10,000 to 20,000 rubles ($5000 to $10,000) per clerk. Many shops were closed today, proprietors declaring they would remain so. Some owners insisted even if the clerks' demands were acceded to the men would not work. Twenty-five shopkeepers compiled with their employes' demands.

No additional details were received today on yesterday's rioting at Kiev, where 15,000 absentee soldiers were said to have organized a formidable demonstration in protest against Minister of War Kerensky's rigor-

The Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Deputies today adopted a resolution approving the removal of the former Czar of all the Russias from his winter palace at Tsarskoe Sele to the great fortress of Peter and Paul. The delegates were convinced that the autocrat of other days is carelessly guarded under the present arrangement.
